MISS AYRES FEATURED IN A GREAT PICTURE

Agnes Ayres Divides Honors With Dudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" To Be Here Next Week.

Agnes Ayres, talented and beautiful, who won stardom by her artistic work in Cecil B. De Milie's Paramount production of "Forbidden Fruit," is featured with the brilliant young acreen piayer, Rudolph Vaientino, in George Melford'a big Paramount production of "The Sheik," which comes to the Washington Theater the first of next

Miss Ayres has the effective role of Diano Mayo, a headstrong but hrave and spirited English girl who encounters the Sheik in the desert and learns finally to love him after a somewhat harrowing experience and complete subjugation to his indomitable will. He is a veritable master of men-and women. None can stand against his power which in his empire of sand is almost invincible.

Wild riding and fighting, gripping scones in desert sandstorms, action piled on action-such are the ingredients of this photopiay by Monte M. Katterjohn, sdapted from E. M. Hull's novei. And Miss Ayres has a role that is difficuit, filied with hard work and tense acting, to which she does, it is said, more than fuil justice.

EDUCATION WEEK.

As there are those who wish that every day might be Christmas, there are those who have the interest of the country most at heart, who could wish that every week were "education week."

The President, by proclamation, has set apart the period from the fourth to the tenth of December as a time in which the American year. Savings deposits continue to people are to give their thoughts in a special manner to the grave problems which we all know exist in connection with our educational

The President has stated the case clearly when he reminds us that while "public education is the basis of eitizenship and of primary importance to the nation," there are five million children of school age who are not being trained in the schools, and are missing even that rudimentary preparation for eitizenship in a republic which rending and writing give.

He reminds us, also, that the draft revealed the fact that there are "vast elements of the population that are illiterate, physically unfit, and unfamiliar with American ideals and traditions.

The Commissioner of Education, Doctor Tigert, declares that the greatest need in education in the United States "is a square deal for the country child"; the city child having spent upon his training $45.59 a year, while the child in the country has spent upon him only $23.91. In the city the schools are open on the average, 182 days each year as compared with a term of 142 days in the country.

In addition to this, there are 300,000 schools that are one-room buildings; secres of thousands which are miserably ventilated and strikes have been waning and living heated; other scores of thousands where only from three to ten pupils are in attendance; and still others where salaries are so wholly inadequate that to secure a well-equipped, enthusiastic teacher is an utter

A .commission of women, through women's organizations throughout New York state, recently completed a survey of the schools and foun dthat disgraceful conditions existed, and that many parts of the Empire State were as dark as some parts of the South have been pictured.

One thing which would serve to a considerable degree to lift the lead of criticism which Congress now bears uneasily, would be an enlightened policy toward federal aid for national education, and the creation of a separate department of education with a caldnete officer at its head.

A strong demand for this great reform is being heard in Wash- New capital absorption has average ington, and the sooner it is satisfied the better.

TAX RETURNS SHOULD REMAIN INVIOLATE.

"It is well that the conferces on the tax revision bill agreed to strike out the provision giving Congress authority to eall upon the Treasury Department for income tax returns of corporations and individuals," says the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. "We have already too much governmental interference with private ulfairs. The Treasury Department, with the cooperation of the Department of Justice, has ample anthority to see that every man and every corporation makes an honest return of his taxable income. The responsibility for the faithful performance of that duty should be left with the department where it is lodged. It is quite possible that the Treasury Department will not in all eases secure complete returns and collect all the taxes legally due, but there is no likelihood that constant inquiries from Congress and demands for inspection of the records would result in any material increase in collections or in expedition of the work. There is delay and confusion enough already.

"But, sade from that phase of the matter, the income tax returns should remain inviolate except for the single question of their accuracy. If Congress or a Congressional Committee could and did eall for income returns, and made them subject to committee inspection, there would be no further possibitlity of an individual or corporatiou keeping his business affairs secret. Business competition is always keen. Rivals will frequently resort to extreme measures to ascertain the financial status of their competitors. Information of this kind, if available in a critical situation, would enable an unserupulous concern to rain its unfortunate rival, which, if left free to purshe its business in the usual way, would attain success. There are a lot of successful men in the United States who have seen the day when it would have been disastrons for them if there had been publicity of their financial difficulties. Given a fair opportunity, they pulled through the emergency and continued to be useful factors in the industrial life of their communities,

"What American industry needs today is a little less interferonce from the Government-particularly from bureaucrats who may never have conducted any considerable business of their own but who take delight in trying to tell private citizens how to run their affairs."

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921.

The cynic has said that "All men are cowards." As we hear men lie, and watch their conduct to others, and listen to their barren explanations for the commission of unseemly acts, we feel that the cynic is correct to a T. But just then we begin to remember what men will do-ull grades of men and of all nationalities and all conditions-when we see them face death for a holy cause or for a banble, and throw their lives away with the most sublime heroism, why, we forget the cynic's hlurb. The truth is, wondrons courage and base cowardice are strangely mixed into every man's make-up.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATIONS ASKED TO HELP KIDDIES

State President Makes Appenl for Cottage Village for the dirpimn Children of the Stale.

Louisville, Ky. - Parent-Teachers' organizations in svery school district iu Kentucky nre called on by the stato president, Mrs. George C. Weldon, to help the Kentucky Children's Home Society in its offort to build a cottage village at Lyndon, Ky., for the care of the homeless children of Ken-

Mrs. Weldou in hor letter points out that the purpose of the two organizations are so parnilel that even the names should be aynonymous.

The Kentucky Children's Home Soclety, at present, is caring for more than 150 ehlldren in buildings on Baxter avenuo designed to aheiter only 150 children, and yet throughout the state there are thousands of little ones homeless, friendles sand knocking nt the door of the intstitution for admisslon that crowded conditions forbid.

The society was founded twenty fivo years ago by Judge Reginald Thompson who died soon afterward Judge Robert W. Blngham, the first vice president and one of its charte: members, then was elected president, which post he still holds.

During its existence the society has aken in nearly 4,000 children, and dmost all of them have been placed in good homes. In hardly a community in the state is there not some prosperous business man or happy wife who was a ward of the society, and in the majority of eases these useful cilizens of today were found in squalor and amid surroundings that breed crime and poverty.

Only by order of the various County Judges are ehlidren admitted, and now that the doors of the institution nre tempornrily closed, these children must be placed in the squalid poor houses to awalt the construction of the cottage village.

George L. Schon, Superintendent of the socioty, in asking that the mothers and schoo ichildren belp raiso this building fund, hopes by this means t have the cottage village, erected as

"My Dear President: - Tho Kentucky Children's Homo Soelety is an organization whose sole alm is the care of the dependent and unfortunate ehlidren aal over the state-not only of your community but of mino and of ever other where auch care is needed sociations of Kentucky is so aimilian that the names should be aynonymous

The Kentucky Children's Home Soelety is moving its children to a beautiful estate in the country where they will all bo given an opportunity for health - In other words, where God's sunshine may be theirs and where hov will be housed and cared for as all little ones have n right to be.

There will be a children's village when completed-but the work is now halted, when really only weii begun. because of iack of funds. It will take $300,000 to complete the work, so that the ehlidren may be given the care they deserve and ahould and will have there.

The children are kept there until good Christian home is found for them where they will be cared for, lover and in most cases finally adopted. While in these new homes, they will be watched over by the home soelety that none may be left in unfit surroundings.

An appeal goes to every president of a local Parent-Teacher Association in Kentucky to do its share in this wonderful movement for the children. It is primarily our work-the welfare of the children-God bless 'em!

Plan with your teachers the best way in which the quotn for your school and community may be raised, through your Parent-Teacher Assoclation and the $300,000 for the children will be raised, but in the words of Klpling It will take "the everiastin" eamwork of every blomin' soui!"
